When we relive the memories mirrored throughout these pages, let us remember with pride and accomplishment the challenges we faced this year. Let us also remember that just as the '79 Lantern symbolizes the light given us by the Lambuth family so it will continue to illuminate our paths as we pursue our various endeavors. In years to come when we look back on our days at Lambuth, we shall cherish this pictorial history because through its pages we shall relive our happy college days.

For fifty-two years the Lantern, so named by Professor Emeritus Arthur D. Oxley, has highlighted each year's activities with the exception of one year during World War II. Although there have been changes in our society, growth in our city and college, and conflicts in the entire world, all relating to our college, the Lantern continues to reflect our rich heritage.

With each year's orientation period, new life comes to the campus as freshmen begin their pursuit of knowledge. At times academic life seems to be a burden but challenges are always present to demand the best from the entire college community. We shall remember with sadness the failures, with joy the achievements; but we shall profit from both types of experiences as we venture into a world of harsh reality.

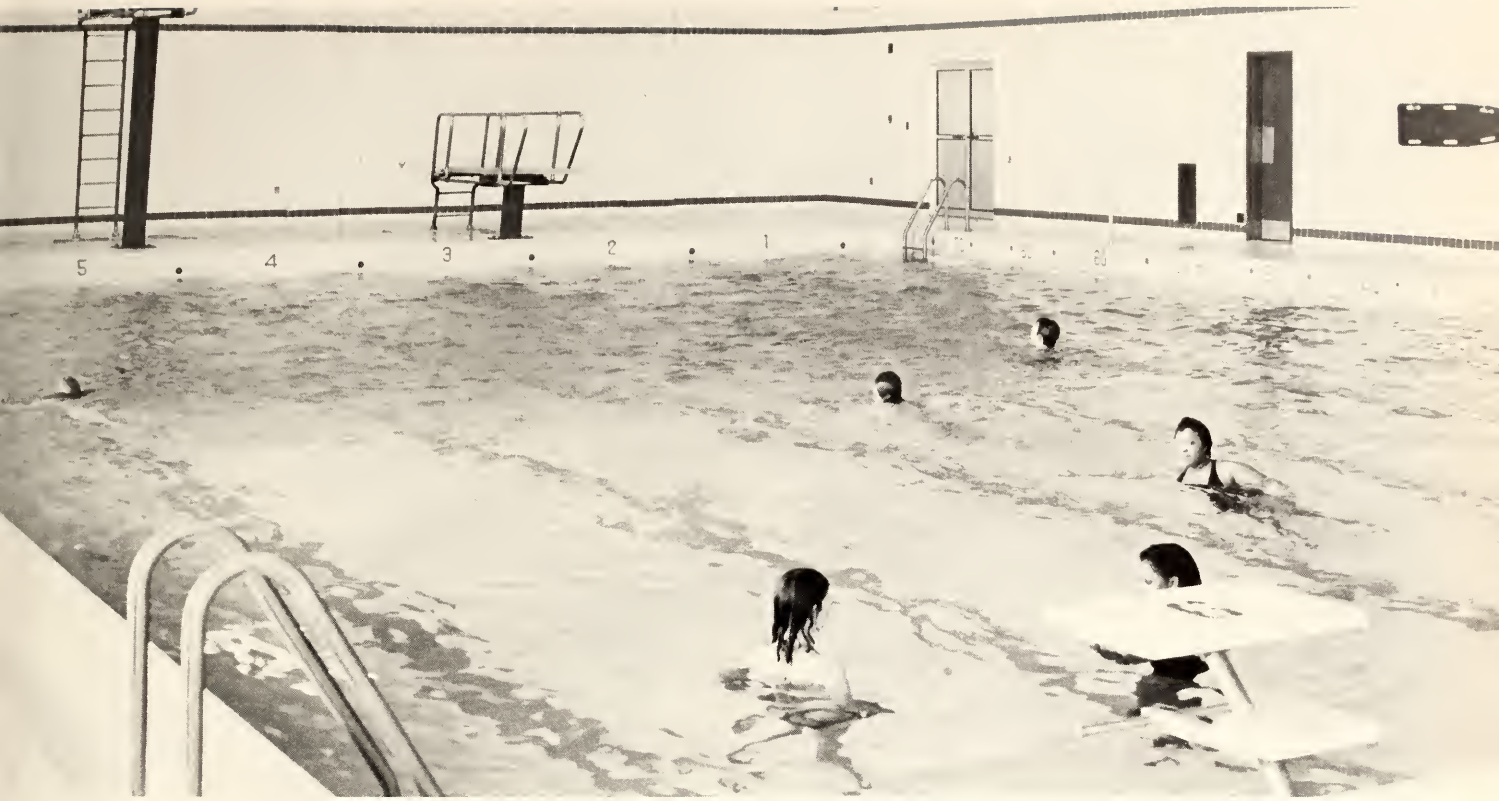

In nostalgic moments we remember delightful experiences which we shared together: exciting rush week, captivating concerts, thrilling sports, fulfilling homecoming, edifying religious activities, rewarding parents' weekend, refreshing drama, and sad but happy commencement exercises. Ambiguous feelings are captured in the pages of the '79 Lantern.

Four years earlier, we stood at the crossroads of life. But this time, we are armed not only with knowledge, but also with a spirit of determination and faith that with God all things are possible. These spiritual elements are benefits from our life here at Lambuth College. Our spirits have been lit with the fire to succeed, to accept challenges, to overcome defeats, to forge a path where none exists. The Lambuth heritage is ours. Our goal is now to use it well. We do not know what the future holds, or what our hearts desire, but we know the tools with which to begin.

"Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

— Phil. 4:8

Activities Fill Orientation Week

To open the 1978 fall term, the administration, faculty, and staff greeted incoming freshmen and transfer students with an informative and entertaining weekend on campus. During this orientation period, students met with their faculty advisors and student counselors to prepare for their academic careers at Lambuth. They discussed such subjects as scheduling, campus organizations, and the secret intricacies of registration.

Entertainment was provided to ease the pressures of the sudden change to college life. A reception and dance in the College Union allowed students to meet faculty members and upperclassmen. In addition, a garden buffet at Dr. and Mrs. Wilder's home concluded the adjustment period as students met the college president and viewed the immediate community surroundings of Lambuth.

Having named the first yearbook the Lantern, Dr. Oxley said, "The reason for this name is that a lantern gives just enough light to see and so it is that a yearbook sheds just enough light in order to remember the past."

"Enhancing the q[illegible] higher education and instituting relevant academic pro[illegible]s at a private church-related school have been the two major [illegible]mes of my tenure," stated Dr. Wilder, Lambuth President.

Dean Whybrew recollected, "When I first came here, Lambuth was essentially a liberal arts college basing almost all of its academics primarily on the humanities."

In recent years the recording of history on tape has attracted increasing public attention with hundreds of oral history programs underway in every state and around the world.

The Lambuth oral history recording, processing, and dissemination began only last year (1977-78) by the students of the journalism class under joint direction of the instructor, Dr. Annie Lou Smith, Professor of English and Mrs. Judith Hazlewood, Head Librarian of the Luther L. Gobbel Library.

Through extensive research and personal, tape-recorded interviews, the journalism students process into printed form a historical article on each of the interviewees. Mrs. Hazlewood files these articles and tapes with other historical data in the library.

Compact Lantern Introduced

With the increasing costs of publication, the LANTERN went to a smaller size book. Color, graphics, and other special effects were used, however, to maintain the high standards of a college yearbook. Staff meetings were highlighted by programs with representatives of Taylor Publishing Company present. Slides and booklets were used to illustrate the latest techniques used in producing a good yearbook. Hopes were that the diligence of the annual's editor, Shelia Barnett, and staff provided the students, faculty and friends of Lambuth college with a yearbook they would treasure.

Art Department Offers Career Oriented Programs

This year Larry Ray continued his leadership in developing and directing career-oriented programs. These programs now include pre-architecture, interior design, and fashion merchandising. The big event of the Fall Semester was the "Gone With the Wind" fashion show featuring designs by Jeanne Dudley Smith of Nashville. The Designer's Showhouse, a repeat of last year's spectacular success, was a major event in the Spring Semester.

Also this year, Joanna Ross added stained glass to the options in the Design courses. Students learned about the history of stained glass and also how to cut it and to lead the pieces into panels.

Designer Showhouse Draws Attention

One of Lambuth's most exciting and fastest growing areas is Interior Design. Last spring the Interior Design Department sponsored a West Tennessee Designer Showhouse which was open to the public and attended by about 3000 persons. An 1870 house in the historic East Main section of Jackson was completely restored by the students with the help of 19 Tennessee Design firms. This project will be repeated this spring.

This fall the Interior Design Program has been broadened to include a Fashion Design and Merchandising major. Courses in Fashion Illustration and Fashion History are also being included. To officially launch the major, famous designers Nieman Marcus and Jeanne Smith, who designs for such people as Joan Kennedy, Priscilla Presley, and Linda McCartney, came to Lambuth and held a spectacular "Fall Fantasia" Fashion Show which was attended by 600 persons.

Biology Department Attracts Students With Enthusiasm

Biology, "the study of life," is clearly reflected in the atmosphere and surroundings of the Biology Department. A stroll through the Department reveals numerous aquariums teeming with the miracle of life that intrigues visitors for long periods of time. Extensive use of the Biological Field Station by the faculty and students is an excellent way to study the phenomenon of living things.

Lecturers Speak To Students

Business and Economics students, as well as the entire community, were fortunate in being able to hear and talk with a series of distinguished guest lecturers. Under the sponsorship of the Center for the Study of American Business, these guest lecturers have brought us a wealth of expertise and information.

Added to the Business Administration and Economics Department, Mr. Wilburn Lane teaches the areas of management and market. In addition he will also direct the night school program at Lambuth.

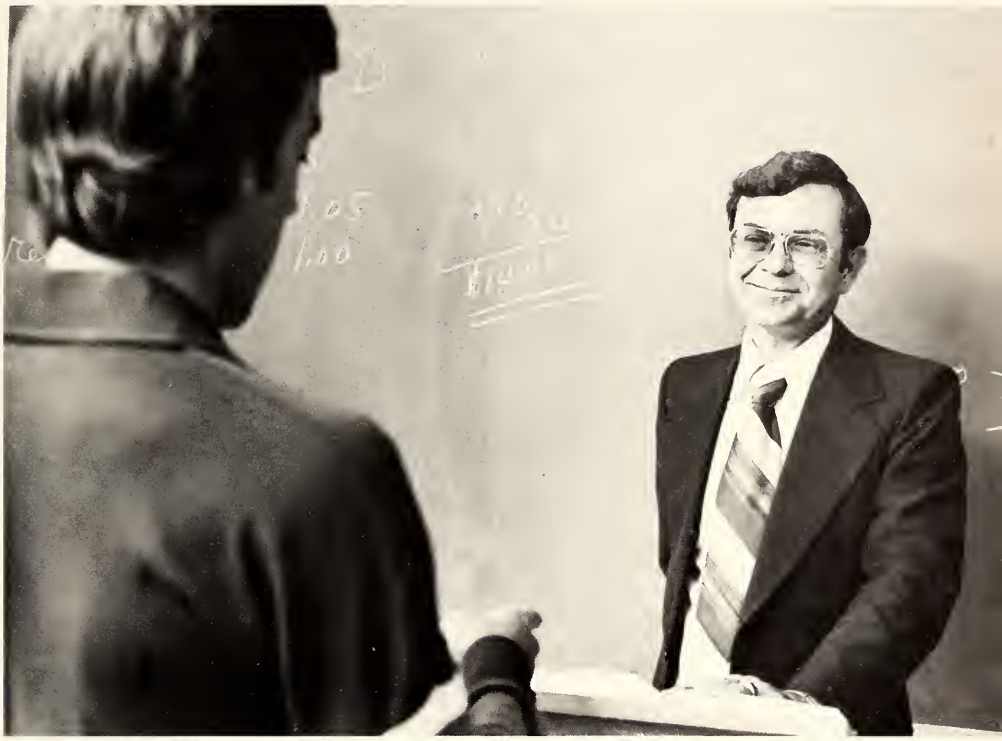

Although nothing new in courses or majors was offered in the department this year, the Hotel and Restaurant Management major was combined with the Management major. Students will be able to take the specialized courses needed in Hotel-Restaurant Management, but the major will be in Management.

Education Department Makes Plans For The Future

Creating a special education major during the academic year 1978-79, the Education Department continued to maintain its leadership in Tennessee education. The program was approved by the State Board of Education thus insuring these majors of a comprehensive certification in Special Education and making Lambuth one of the pioneer colleges in this field in Tennessee. Dr. Earl Zehr was added to the department to give impetus to this program.

The year was marked by a self study for the department, in preparation for a State Department team visit to re-acredit both elementary and secondary programs of certification. In recent years the department has been approved to offer Kindergarten, Library Science, and Educable Mentally Retarded programs leading to certification. Certification programs in Speech and Hearing and some thirty other areas combine with the above programs to make Lambuth a widely recognized institution for teacher preparation.

Staff members are active in the work of organizations relating to professional education and they serve as members on State and National Committees. The staff provides consultant services to area schools and furnishes members for both State and Southern Association accreditation teams.

English Department Offers New Major

Although concentrating on a wide variety of courses this year, the English Department's principle concern has been the teaching of English composition.

The department offered to students an interdisciplinary major in Literature. Moreover, the major is composed of courses in both the Religion and English departments. The department hopes to include, in the future, courses in Foreign Languages. This is an effort to use presently offered courses at the college to increase options for students who are interested in related fields.

Family Development Department Remodeled

Now including food, consumer, and family services, the Family Development Department expanded so that the new services are a part of new Fashion Merchandising and the Interior Design majors. The Family Development Department was redecorated during the first week of the fall semester by Interior Design students.

Language Studies Expanded To Offer Major

In response to a growing national emphasis on the importance of foreign languages and the need for international studies in this country, the Foreign Language Department is now offering a major in foreign languages, leading to the Bachelor of Arts Degree.

Some of the objectives of the department are to develop proficiency in communication in an increasingly international world and to prepare students for career opportunities related to foreign language studies.

Advocate Club Revitalized

In an effort to assist students from all majors who are interested in attending law school, the Political Science Department has revitalized the Advocate Club. Through the efforts of the Advocate Club, a pre-law library has been set up at the Career Development Center.

In addition, students attended a pre-law conference in New Orleans where they met with representatives of law schools throughout the country. Students of both History and Political Science attended a Model United Nations Seminar and the Confederate Historical Institute during the year.

Library Science Responds To Student Needs

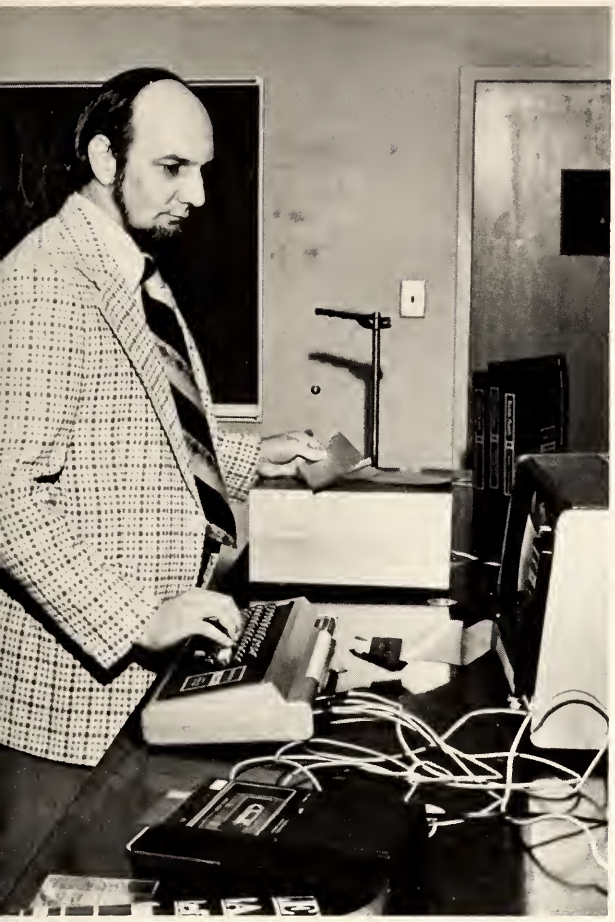

Meeting the needs of both prospective librarians and education majors is the objective of the fully accredited library science program. Under the supervision of Mrs. Judith Hazlewood, Head Librarian, the program serves both students currently completing certification requirements and certified teachers wishing to add an endorsement in library science. As a part of the Education Department, the library science program offers its courses during the day and in the afternoon to better serve its students.

Mathematics-Physics Department

Continuing to fill the needs of students from all departments, the Mathematics-Physics Department offers various courses for these students and math or physics majors also. This response is welcomed by all majors who are assured of departmental interest in and counseling for their specific needs.

Music Department Presents Concerts

Under the supervision of Dr. Jo Fleming, the music department remained active with both choirs and bands representing programs throughout the area.

Conducted by Mr. Richard Brown, the Jazz Band entertained at home basketball games, the grand opening ceremonies at the Old Hickory Mall, and other civic club meetings in Jackson. Also, the Concert Band under his direction, presented Winter and Spring concerts on campus and toured high schools and junior colleges.

Directed by Dr. Jo Fleming, the Concert and Touring Choirs provided music at the Christmas Candlelight Service and the Spring concert.

Under the direction of Mr. Frank Coulter and Dr. Don Hunycutt, senior music students presented voice and piano recitals throughout the school year.

Chemistry-Physical Science Attracts Interest

An increased interest in chemistry has led to a record number of students enrolling as Chemistry majors. With this large enrollment, the Student Affiliate Section of the American Chemical Society has recorded good attendance at and participation in its meetings. Some of the activities provided at meetings include films on medical nature and guest speakers from various fields who discuss their research with the students.

Also, in response to current demand, the department has introduced the use of a micro-computer.

Psychology Department Records Staff Changes

Assuming the duties of the head of the Psychology Department this year was Dr. Louis Snellgrove. Another new face was that of Mr. Thomas Johns, who serves as a psychology instructor and as Director of Counseling for the Career Development Center. In addition, Dr. Harry Berryman serves as a part-time instructor for the department.

Physical Education Department Offers Variety Of Interims

To interest more students in physical education, a variety of interims have been planned by the faculty. These interims include fishing, physical fitness, and coaching. Designed to appeal to all students as well as physical education majors, these interims give students a wide choice from which to choose.

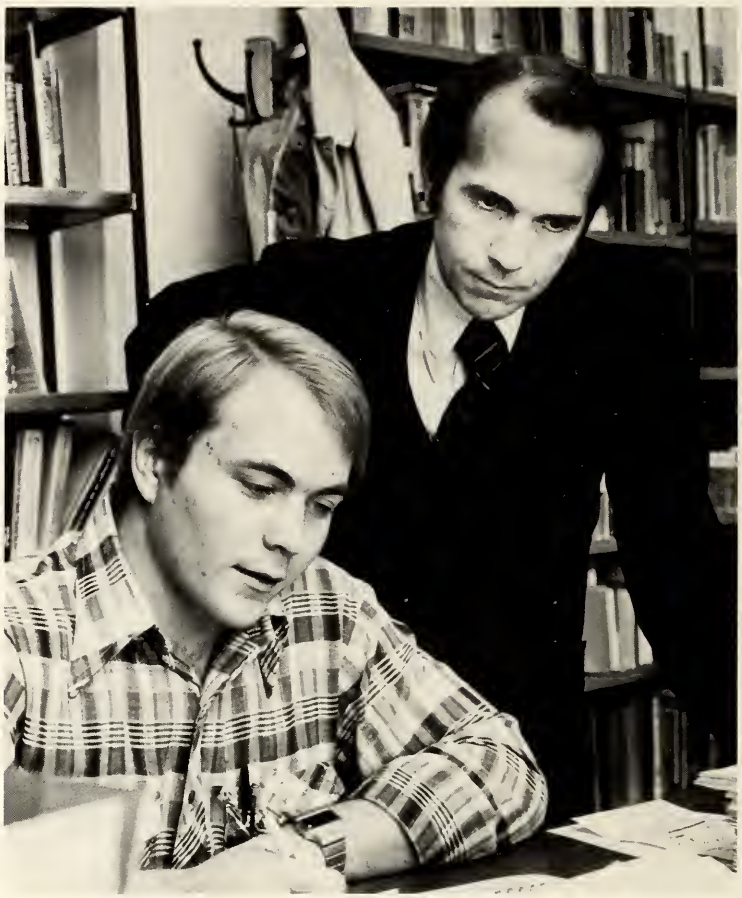

Left: Coach Williams illustrates the use of hoops in elementary physical education to Cheryl Harrison and Debbie Eison.

Religion Department Attends Annual Meeting

Attending the joint annual meeting of the American Academy of Religion and the Society of Biblical Literature were the four members of the Religion and Philosophy Department.

As a part of the new Literature major offered in the English Department, several Religion courses were offered as part of this interdiciplinary major. In addition, although no new courses were added to the department's curriculum, there were several classes offered at night to interest both students and area residents.

Sociology Department Offers Many Interims

All areas of the Department of Sociology, Social Work and Family Development were represented in Interim projects during the month of January. Each division of the department had an interim designed to interest any student. They included: Meditation, Sewing for Self and Home, Observations in Health and Welfare Agencies, Sights and Sounds of Social Movements, and Sociology of American Religious Sects.

Also sponsored by the department was a Fall Symposium of Social Work on September 26, 1978. These guests from the University of Tennessee School of Social Work spoke to social work majors and all interested students.

Speech And Drama Sees Innovations

For the Department of Speech and Drama, 1978-79 was a very active year. For the first time the Lambuth Theatre presented its summer stock season in a very successful dinner theatre format, staging A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM and 6 RMS RIV VU. The regular season's bill included CARNIVAL, THE TAMING OF THE SHREW, HAY FEVER, and DEATH OF A SALESMAN.

Members of the department recruited talented students through visits to high school theatre productions, both in and out of state, and at the Southeastern Theatre Conference. The department hosted the Tennessee Theatre Association Convention and accepted an invitation to participate in the Kentucky State Thespian Convention.

Other areas in speech and drama also saw innovations. A traveling Lambuth Readers Theatre troupe was formed to take a variety of programs to high schools and junior colleges. WLAM was reorganized to offer a greater variety in campus radio programming. In addition to hosting again its annual High School Forensic Tournament, the department entered some of its own students in competition in the Tennessee Forensic Association Tournament.

Volleyball Team Provides Exciting Games

Coached by Mrs. Norma Ellis, the 1979 Varsity Volleyball Team ended the season with a 19-21 record. Although ending with more losses than victories, the team did not fail to provide close and exciting games. Even though Senior Melodie Schmidt will not be returning, many other players will provide a good foundation for next year's team.

Once again displaying their tremendous skills, the Eaglettes provided their spectators with a successful basketball season. The team took a trip to New Orleans, where they were victorious over the University of New Orleans; the score was 65-47. The 1979 Eaglettes ended a successful season beating rival Union University in the Women's Volunteer State Athletic conference.

This year's starters included Kim Blurton, Brenda Moore, Valerie Poston, Vickey Poston and Donna Sweeney. With only one graduating team mate (Kim Blurton) they are expected to do just as well during the next season.

Students Support Intramurals

Traditionally, intramurals were set up to provide athletic activities within the school for all students. Keeping with traditions, Greek women and men competed against independent students in sportive events such as flagball, volleyball, and basketball in the fall. In addition, in the spring these students participated in tennis, softball, badminton, and racquetball.
